

THE BAREFOOT TEACHER

Pleased and proud, a young native girl introduces her young brother to the pretty Peace Corps teacher.

The village people built this home for their elementary school teacher.

Ponape, in the middle of Micronesia, is an isolated Pacific island of volcanic origin, lush and green with sheer rock bluffs rising out of the verdant jungle.

The small village of Wone on Ponape is relatively untouched by western influence. Aside from a Jesuit mission and tiny co-op store, things are pretty much as they were when Captain Cook first came to this part of the world. The Micronesian group of islands, including Ponape, are under a U.N. trusteeship administered by the U.S.

Kathrin Fitch lives in Wone. The tiny village is roughly five centuries removed from her home in Bakersfield, California. Kathy, a Peace Corps teacher, lives alone here in a small thatched house. The people of Wone built it for Kathy because this young teacher belongs to them and they feel responsible for her welfare.

Kathy graduated from the University of Colorado as an art major in 1965. She went through Peace Corps training and started her present assignment in November, 1966. She teaches the first and second grades at the Wone Elementary School. Her basic subject is English and the children are quick and pick it up with little trouble. Kathy also teaches the youngsters art and they enjoy learning American dances.

Her first month on the island was rather difficult. On only the second night in Wone, Kathy was badly frightened by an Indian bullock, a large black animal closely related to a water buffalo, as she walked along a jungle path at night. In retrospect, she realizes it was probably unnerving to the bullock to run into a shining kerosene lantern.

The young Peace Corps volunteer makes a trip to the main island of Kolonia every few weeks to visit friends and check in at the Peace Corps office there. It is about three hours by boat. Kathy realizes how much she misses the easy and familiar things of American life, but also realizes that she is going through an experience which will make her into a different person. She is learning about the world and discovering herself.

A real stroll in paradise.

The youngsters of Wone try some American dances under Kathy's direction.

Kathy basks in sun on river bank as native woman finishes her laundry chores.

It isn't all work on the hot, beautiful island of Wone.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

HANG UP SNOW SKIS, SLIP INTO WATER SKIS: Even more guys and gals will skid on boards on water this summer (over 9 million) than did on snow last winter (6 million)... a lot of them the same strap-something-on-your-feet fanatics. Water skiing is outstandingly a sport where the vitality, daring and endurance of youth sweep top honors. Who do you suppose is the champion barefoot (he straps on nothing) skier of the world?—It's 17-year-old Steve Northrup of Pensacola, Fla., who splashed behind a speeding boat on his hard-soled tootsies for 35 miles, elapsed time one hour, seven minutes and 15 seconds. Hoorah, the result was young USA took the crown by seven minutes from Australia. Other skim-over-the-water teen champs today are 15-year-old Liz Allan of Winter Park, Fla., who copped the Masters Cup at the Masters Water Ski Tournament in Georgia last summer, (including leaping for a world's record water ski jump of 106 feet); little Ricky Joe McCormick, 15, of Independence, Mo., who topped the long-time trick-riding champion; LeRoy Burnett of Bethel Island, Calif., 17, who swiped the slalom title, and the youngest skier ever invited to the competition, Lisa St. John, an 11-year-old supertype from Fall River Mills, Calif., who ran up most points in trick stuff among women... Not only are the champs pretty young, but the sport is, too. It all started in 1922 when Ralph Samuelson clamped on a clumsy pair of square-ended wood skis, twice his height, and demonstrated man could ski the surface of the sea.

ARE YOU ONE IN SEVEN WHO DOES? Brush teeth, we mean, with frequency. Latest news in the tooth-brushing department from the U.S. Public Health Service reports that, despite drastic warnings by dentists, only 16 per cent of the American public brushes teeth more than twice a day. No doubt more young adults brush more than oldies, and, since it's advised, you'd best brush teeth after every meal.

WILL SHE OR WON'T SHE? Benefit by getting her college degree?—For girls with their hearts set on going to (and through) college, but maybe even more set on some guy... which should the bewildered bird settle for? YOUTH BEAT (which makes no pretense of having the all-knowing answer to everything) admits each gal must make her individual decision. But recent findings are that today's married college women are prizing their degrees more than ever... A big reason is that early marriage and family planning often mean gals bus their last child off to school by the time they're in their mid-30s. Ho-hum, what to do then?—Of course, a job—maybe in community work, maybe for that nice filthy stuff—money. This is when the old, crackling college degree helps... to get a better position, easier. Foreshadowing this trend, right now seven out of 10 college-educated women, 45 to 55, hold jobs. Perhaps the bewildered bird should settle for both a college degree and a husband.

The wedding will take place July 18, in the First Baptist Church, Hope.

HELEN HELP US!
by Helen Bottel

COUPON-HAPPY WIFE DRIVES HUSBAND TO SOFT DRINK
Dear Helen: If these retail sales promotion boys could live with my coupon happy wife, just one week, they'd learn. Man, would they learn! That would teach 'em they should turn their glinty little eyes on other, less annoying gimmicks to hook women.

My wife doesn't buy merchandises, she buys coupons. Anything with a come-on she can't resist, whether she needs it or not. She says women are like that.

Take last week. A soft drink company offered a dollar refund if you send in eight corks from the caps, plus a label from a special new kind of paper cup—with dispenser. She bought the pop then picked up a box of paper cups which the store displayed alongside the coupon "ad." You guessed it: wrong cups! So she wheels back to the market and buys the right brand of dispenser—wrong size! Again, back to market, but she can't exchange the first two packages because she has opened them.

Meanwhile, our kids and their pals had drunk six of the eight "pops," thrown away the caps, so, of course, she replaces them. Another half-gallon of gas.

Now, Helen, have you ever pruned a cork out of a cap? My stitches from the doctor, who gave me a bargain price of $8.00 because he sympathized with me... his wife collects coupons too.

Presently the total cost for a dollar "refund" has skyrocketed to $12.56, not including bottle deposits. Our progeny is awash, with soda pop and burping. And we are the unhappy owners of two paper cup wall dispensers—plus 88 extra cups—in a family that never uses them.

Show me the man who invented grocery store coupons and I'll show you a bachelor. If I ever meet him, I'll pour down his miserable throat a cocktail made of ground-up coupons mixed with pop, and dispensed from a paper cup!—BOB

Dear Bob: Tell me when, and I'll pop over to help you!—H.

PERSONAL TO SHOULD WE OR SHOULDN'T WE?
Early - to - wed lovebirds should recall what Gypsy Rose Lee telegraphed newly married friends: "Enjoy yourselves, it's later that you think." ... So think first!—H

Dear Helen: My first husband and I have been divorced for 30 years. We lived together 21 years, had seven children, 23 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. We both remarried but are now alone. I'm 68 and he's 70.

He wants to marry me again and spend our old age together. He deserted me and the children when they were young, after being unfaithful many times. I worked and reared them with no help from him, but it was better than being a doormat.

I now have a nice home of my own and draw Social Security; enjoy life, am not lonely, but am greatly frustrated wondering what to do. Do I owe the father of my children a second chance?—C.C.

Dear C: You owe the man deserted you nothing, but if you think life with him would be happier than without him—well, think a while longer. Then be a bit selfish in your decision. Choose what's best for YOU. Remember, he may only want a nurse in an old-age rest home. —H.

Television and Radio

By GENE HANDSAKER HOLLYWOOD (AP)
"Dino's making a movie. Deana's appearing in Cincinnati. Claudia's in the 20th Century-Fox drama workshop."

Call, 22, third of Dean Martin's seven children by two marriages, was giving a run-down of his talented offspring's present or prospective summer activities.

"Dad will be making two movies. The two youngest (Ricci, 13, and Gina, 19) are performers, too — they're just not getting paid for it. Craig (25) is production coordinator behind the scenes on dad's TV show."

Call herself will be helping to fill in for pop on NBC's "The Dean Martin Summer Show with Your Host Vic Damone," starting June 22.

She's a lively, pretty lass with outgoing self-assurance, freckles, an uptipped nose and dark curls that divide fore and aft over her shoulders. A singer, she was asked to describe her performing voice.

"It's a big voice, a show voice, a rock 'n' roll voice," she reported. The only vocal coaching Dean has given her was when she was practicing — loudly — for her premiere professional engagement last year at a Beverly Hills night spot.

"What are you yelling about?" he asked. "You've already got the job."

She pictured Dean Martin as an indulgent yet firm father — "If he says no, he means it." He never had spanked her but she could remember him applying pants-seat discipline to Dino, now a shaggy 15½-year-old with his own rock 'n' roll recording group, Dino Desi and Billy.

"Dino's movie is 'A Boy, A Girl,' and he's going to be a big star," Call predicted.

Dean's best advice to her, she said, was "be yourself" and "do what you like." But he insisted on education before show business, including in her case college graduation in England.

He lent Call the money for musicians, arrangements and expenses on her first nightclub tour last summer. This fall, after several state-fair appearances, she starts another.

Family man Martin usually is as relaxed as he is on the air. When she phoned long-distance during her tour, he asked: "Where are you?"

"Hudson, Ohio," she replied.

"Good to hear from you," he said. "I've missed you around the house."

Life in Arkansas
By TOMMY YATES Associated Press Writer

Kling Midas had a good thing going for him with his golden touch and R. H. Sikes of Springdale is said to possess one of the finest putting touches on the professional golf tour.

A junior student at St. Joseph High School at Conway, however, performed a feat recently which undoubtedly will rank him with the all time touchers.

Unlike Midas, however, who could turn objects into valuable gold with a meek touch, Ted Mattingly used his delicate sense of touch to tell the difference between the valuable and the unvaluable.

It all started when Gary Jenkins, 14, a carrier for the Conway Log Cabin Democrat, turned in his collections to the newspaper.

Mattingly, who is employed at the paper after school hours, was sorting the money by hand when he touched a $5 bill and immediately questioned the bill's authenticity.

His doubts were verified later by the U. S. Secret Service officials at Little Rock who said the bill was counterfeit and commended Mattingly for his perception.

The bill was 1950 Series D federal reserve note and had been classified previously by the secret service as "fairly deceptive."

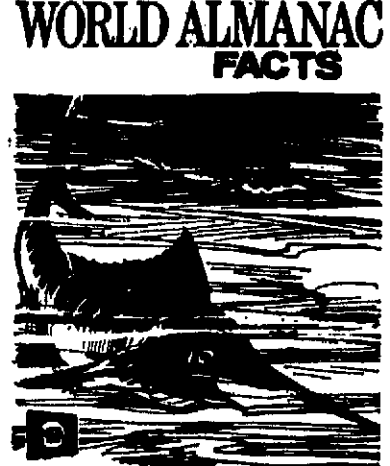

One of the strangest thefts was brought to the attention of Life in Arkansas recently. Nine mail boxes were stolen in the Valley View area near Jonesboro.

Why would anybody want to steal mail boxes? After all, what could you do with them, except eat them!

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The fastest track stars could not begin to match the speed of some ocean fish. The swordfish, for example, has been clocked at 60 miles an hour, says The World Almanac. The tuna can swim at a remarkable 44 miles an hour, the dolphin at 37 and the salmon at 25. Flying fish often emerge from the water at 35 miles per hour and have been observed to glide in the air for over 40 seconds.

The poultry festival will be held Saturday, June 10, in Hammons Stadium.

The NOW People

By AILEEN SNOODY Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The high price of prescription drugs is a hard pill to swallow, especially for a person who must take What'sit X for weeks or even years.

Setting out to pressure doctors to change this situation is one of their colleagues, Dr. Richard Burack, a Boston internist and clinical associate at Harvard Medical School, has compiled a $1.95 paperback which many think will rock the drug industry much as Ralph Nader's "Unsafe at Any Speed" did the auto manufacturers.

Called "The Handbook of Prescription Drugs, Official Names, Prices and Sources for Patient and Doctor," the book urges doctors to write less expensive prescriptions for safe, effective drugs by using their generic names.

The bluefin tuna is one of the fightingest of all the big game salt-water fish, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

rather than brand names. (Each new drug receives a generic or official name and a brand name selected by the manufacturer who developed the drug. After 17 years other firms can produce and sell a drug under its generic name.)

"Why," Burack asks, "should you pay $28.50 for What'sit X when it is possible to buy it as oxyboxy for $5?"

Helping him put this question before the public recently was Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in a major speech before Congress on drug industry practices. Burack, his wife and five children beamed down from the Senate gallery.

Burack admits the listing of drugs and prices was not wholly his idea. "Early in my medical career, a druggist with a social conscience pointed out I could write lower-priced prescriptions by using generic names." As a result he began to compile a list and made up mimeographed sheets to be used in the teaching hospitals. These were to help students keep up with new drugs after a course in pharmacology which most take in the second year of medical school. "After that," he points out, "the student relies on clinicians to guide him in prescribing drugs."

Burack blames doctors for relying heavily upon pharmaceutical firms to keep them informed on drugs. He criticizes manufacturers for ballooning the price of brand name products by their extensive advertising. Doctors may turn to one or two official drug reference books for help but Burack feels these, too, are influenced by pressures.

Burack feels his book won't confuse the consumer and believes its real value will be to simplify things for the doctor. "I would like to see it used regularly in training hospitals. My own role in drug selection is that of just a doctor," he adds. "I disseminate information as an educator and any legislation is up to the legislators."

"I have found," he says, "that most druggists are humane and helpful. They will stock a generic drug if they know customers need it. There is no reason why a druggist can't stock up even if he has to sell the consumer a more expensive brand name drug first."

"The more aware consumer," he feels, "may remind his doctor to suggest a generic drug to save him money." Currently, though, the consumer is boxed in. Unless the prescription is written by generic name then the druggist must fill the order by brand name even if a less expensive equivalent drug is available. This is true in 39 states.

AIRBORNE TWOSOME—Stuart Whitman and Sarah Miles head a huge international cast of stars in the 20th Century-Fox adventure-comedy spectacle, "The Magnificent Men in their Flying Machines" in CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color

Tues. - Wed. At Saenger

Michael Connors, as an American agent in Brazil, fights for his life atop the famed statue of Christ overlooking the harbor at Rio de Janeiro. It's a scene from Dino de Laurentiis' "Kiss the Girls and Make Them Die," which also stars Dorothy Provine, Raf Vallone, Margaret Lee, Nicoletta Machiavelli, Beverly Adams and Terry-Thomas in color by Technicolor. The Columbia Pictures release was directed by Henry Levin.

ONLY THE BEGINNING

For all those who truly seek wisdom this is "Only The Beginning" time. It's time for rewards but also time for setting the sails to cope with the high winds ahead. Commencement to serious minds can be little less than frightening. Have these young people learned well to do their duty? Are they qualified to accept prosperity? Are they fortified for adversity? Have they learned about God? If they have not learned these things well, then they have learned but little. Opportunities are in abundance for those who are determined. Commencement is only the first round on a ladder that reaches to the stars for all who will but apply themselves. Then, young graduates, be of great faith and unlimited perseverance. For He said you have only "to seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

You In The Church
The Church is You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read this Spiritual Values page and make it a part of your life... it is your heritage.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH Denture Adjustments May Overcome Speech Defects

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

New dentures, especially uppers, are frequent causes of speech defects. Most are temporary and easily overcome in a few days or weeks or as soon as tongue, lips and other mouth structures become accustomed to contours of dentures.

But some patients continue to be troubled even after weeks of practice and professional speech therapy. Why is this so? Why do some people adapt easily and others have such a hard time?

Considering the radical changes in mouth space and surfaces with which tongue and lips must contend, it's amazing that denture patients can learn to speak at all properly.

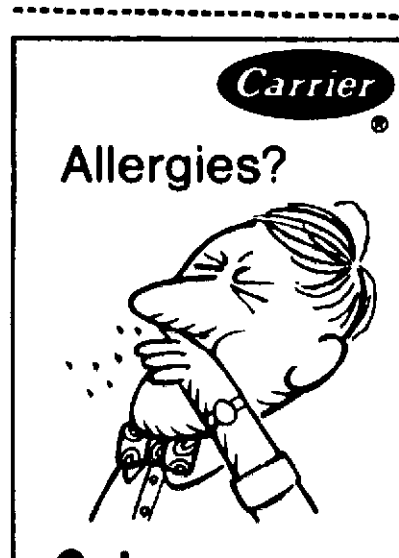

When they can't, something is obviously wrong. And unless their situation is complicated by defective hearing, dentures are at fault. Even though quite perfect in appearance and function, there may be flaws that must be corrected, or entire denture remade.

Denture areas most vital and most sensitive to proper speech lie just behind upper front teeth. If this area is too thick, it's difficult for the tongue to compensate, and many sounds are blurred.

Other faults in denture construction can cause difficulties: too narrow arches may confine and limit movement of tongue; "open bite" (teeth that come together too soon), and "closed bite" (teeth that don't come together soon enough); rough surfaces or overextended borders may limit mobility of tongue and lips; thick palatal areas next to eye teeth; and sometimes teeth arranged to look natural, i.e. crooked or with spaces between.

Position of front teeth is important. Teeth placed at too sharp an angle in the denture, or too straight, or in fact any change that is too far from the natural or previous position, can disturb speech.

Your dentist knows the answers and can make proper adjustments.

Sky High Workshop

An Air Force orbiting laboratory being developed for advanced space flight technology is shown in the drawing at right. Launched into orbit, two men could work in the lab about 30 days before returning to the Gemini capsule at the front, to detach from the lab and de-orbit.

Bad Bid Plus Gamble Loses

By Oswald & James Jacoby Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In board-a-match team of four duplicate scores are compared only once. Your partners play the same hands that were played against you, while your opponents' partners play your cards. You score a point if your partners do better than your opponents and zero if they do worse so that your whole aim as declarer is to try to get a better result than that declarers get at the other table.

East's double of three no-trump asked his partner to open his own bid suit. Unfortunately for East it seems that West thought it called for a club lead (dummy's bid suit) if West had not bid but when your partner has bid your no-trump double says, "Partner, don't look around. Just lead your suit."

Anyway, West opened a club and East's jack fell to South's king. At this point, South could have made the hand by leading a heart but South played his king of spades.

East, in with the ace, led the queen of diamonds. It was allowed to hold and a second diamond lead knocked out dummy's ace.

South came to his hand with the ten of clubs and led the jack of hearts. He needed one heart trick to make his contract and had decided to bad judgment. His gamble to make the contract was even worse. It seems that West did not overcall at the other table and South also reached three no-trump. West did open a diamond and South was down three undoubted. This would have lost the board against down one doubled.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♣	Pass	4 N.T.
Pass	5 ♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A Q 7 ♥ K 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ A Q 10 5 4

What do you do now?

A—Bid five no-trump. If your partner shows only one king let him play six diamonds. If he shows two or three kings you can go to six no-trump. If he happens to hold solid diamonds plus the king of clubs, he can go on to seven if he wishes.

Tension Is Noted All Over China

By CHIE NISHIO PEKING (AP) — On the surface it looks as if the people of mainland China are learning to live with Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge.

Before they pick up their chopsticks in city restaurants they recite from the red plastic-covered booklets of Mao sayings.

When they window shop, they must peer between the frayed edges of wall newspapers plastered over store windows.

At night in their dimly lit cities, they get more cultural revolution, in movies, ballets and discussion groups.

In our tour of China we saw no sign of the violence often reported in the wall newspapers although we noted an undercurrent of tension at one commune.

The people went about their daily work, amid the trappings of the cultural revolution, seemingly unmindful of the struggle of titans going on between Mao and President Liu Shao-chi.

Housewives, only a few hanging onto toes, crowded the Canton city market, standing in line twice a day to buy fresh foods for the midday meal and again for the evening.

The stalls were filled with beef, chicken, fish, cleaned fresh vegetables. Most of it hung from overhead frames. It looked good, and prices seemed cheap.

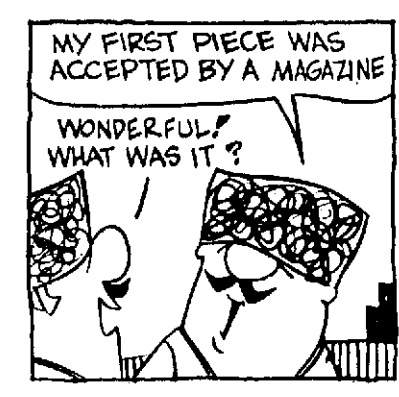

Special counters were manned by government inspectors to check prices and weights.

In Peking and Shanghai there was the traffic of a big city, but it was mostly bicycles.

Factories were busy. One, at Fatsan, specialized in enamelware. It employed 500 persons and concentrated on making Igloo brand for government offices. It received so many orders in 1966 that the last one will not be filled until August. Then they will start on the 1967 orders.

Turbine Fleet Sure If Auto Club Sanctions

By MARTY ANDERSON
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) —

A fleet of turbine-powered cars may be hitting the championship racing circuit soon.

That is if the U.S. Auto Club, race sanctioning body, gives its official blessing.

Anthony (Andy) Granatelli said Thursday he will produce 10 copies of the turbine car that almost ran away with the Indianapolis 500-mile race Wednesday.

Parnelli Jones was 10 miles from the checkered flag when forced out.

A. J. Foyt won the race in a Coyote-Ford he helped design.

Granatelli, president of Studebaker Corporation's STP Division and turbine sponsor, said, "Although we were knocked out by a freak failure of a $6 ball bearing assembly, a one in a million failure, we proved without question the turbocar is the racing machine of tomorrow."

Whether the turbine is permitted to race further against the conventional piston engines may be settled when the USAC rules committee meets June 5.

"It definitely will be brought up," said Henry Banks, the club's director of competition. "It's our job to keep competition even. Arranging formulas for that purpose is a foremost consideration."

There were cries of foul when the turbine came to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year. Opponents claimed it was like letting a motorcycle in a bicycle race and the piston-engine drivers would be battling only for second place.

"There were no ground rules for a turbine and we think we came up with a pretty good formula for one," Banks said. "All you can do for a new development is run it once and then reconsider."

Banks pointed out the turbine alone wasn't responsible for the car's fine showing. He said it was a combination of an extraordinarily fine chassis, four-wheel drive, the turbine and Parnelli Jones.

Granatelli gave a "rough estimate" of $67,500 to produce the turbine car. He said there still were some costs to figure but the Pratt & Whitney aircraft-type engine would be about $30,000 and the chassis about $37,500.

He said this was about $15,000 more than the typical piston model, but the turbine engine would last for 10 years of racing while two, three or more piston engines are needed sometimes in one season.

The sportsman-industrialist said he has had several inquiries and "as soon as we have 10 firm orders in hand, we will start production at our Paxton shops in Santa Monica, Calif."

Granatelli said he didn't plan to put the turbine on the shorter tracks of the championship circuit because Jones has no desire to drive in other championship-type races and the car must be returned to Santa Monica for a thorough check. He added, however, that after the check the car would be ready to drive on any track and at any time Jones desires.

Calling the car one of "magificent safety," Granatelli said the four-wheel drive enabled Jones to pass other cars on the left or right, control a spin after another car made contact and skim over oil spots without spinning.

Can You Believe?

ATLANTA — (NEA) — The National League went 91 years before a player hit a pair of grand slam homers in a game. Then, would you believe, the guy to do it was a pitcher?

That's right. Tony Cloninger of Atlanta powered a pair of round trippers with the bases loaded in San Francisco's windy Candlestick Park on July 3, 1966. Needless to say, Tony had an easy time winning his game, 17-3, against the Giants.

Baseball's Rarest Play Is a 50,000-1 Shot

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The rarest play in baseball is the unassisted triple play and, if you don't believe it, the odds are 50,000-1 that you'll see one.

It was not Jimmy-the-Greek who came up with the odds. It was former United Press sports writer Carl Lundquist, one of the all-time great "figure-filberts" of baseball.

The last unassisted triple play came on May 31, 1927, in a game between the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians in Detroit. Johnny Neun, the Tiger first baseman, was the hero in that one.

Neun's unassisted triple play came a day after shortstop Jimmy Cooney of the Chicago Cubs executed one against the Pittsburgh Pirates in Pittsburgh.

So on May 30-31, 1927, there were back-to-back unassisted triple plays. There have been none since. Lundquist estimates that 50,000 games have been played since May 31, 1927.

Cooney's triple-play came in the morning game of a Memorial Day doubleheader.

Paul Waner was on second base for the Pirates and George Grantham on first with Forest Wright at bat.

Wright lined to Cooney who touched second, doubling Waner. Cooney then tagged Grantham who was on his way to second base. The triple play enabled the Cubs to win, 7-6, and the victory broke an 11-game Pirate winning streak.

Neun's play came in the ninth inning against the Indians, who were threatening to break open a runless game.

Glenn Myatt had walked for the Indians and went to second when Charlie Jamieson bunted for a hit. Homer Summa then lined to Neun "who," the New York Times reports, "took the ball standing still, ran over and tagged Jamieson between first and second and continued to second base, landing there before Myatt could return."

Just as a reminder how long it has been since there has been an unassisted triple play, the Times front page that day read:

"King of England Decorates Lindbergh"

What he didn't realize, however, was the degree of difference.

The Dodgers' third baseman is in his third major league season. The first two were spent with pennant winners. Now the team is losing, and Jim Lefebvre is hearing about it. Frankly, he is surprised.

"Maybe I shouldn't be," he said. "I just thought people would realize we're rebuilding and have more patience. You just don't lose a Wills and Koufax and not feel it."

There was a touch of sadness in Lefebvre's plea. With Wills and Koufax gone, Jim, a Los Angeles native, becomes one of the Dodger leaders and a key figure in the team's rebuilding plans. If he were from another town, it wouldn't be so difficult to understand the attitude of the fans and the press. But when the people are those you have come to know and trust most, the hurt goes much deeper.

"The team knew it would not be the same this year," Lefebvre said. "We went to spring training knowing it. But we didn't sit around and moan. We know we'll win because we have good talent."

There is no real way, Lefebvre says, to measure the value of Wills and Koufax to the Dodgers. "It goes beyond just wins and losses," he said. "Look, if you take Juan Marichal off the Giants, Jim Bunning off the Phillies and Bob Veale off the Pirates what would happen? There's just no way a team can lose its best pitcher and not feel it."

The same with Maury. He was more than just a short-

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Carlton Kammerer is a big man who enjoys destroying big myths.

For example: "How about that one that baseball is the national pastime?" the Washington Redskins' defensive end says. "All you have to do is look at the football attendance statistics to prove which is which now."

And the one about all football players being violent, blood-letting types who spend the off-season pulling trees out of the ground or bending railroad tracks into horseshoes.

The myth, however, that really disturbs young Mr. Kammerer is totally unrelated to football: that smoking is not going to harm an individual. "Everyone," Carl said, "feels it (cancer) won't happen to them."

If anyone can destroy myths two and three it is Carl Kammerer, a blond, 6-3, 245-pound graduate of Pacific University. Carl holds a master's degree in education, which led him to his present off-season job with the Howard County, Md., cancer crusade. Carl is vice-chairman for special activities.

It is his job to speak before youth groups, alerting them to the dangers of cancer. A film about the relationship between smoking and cancer is part of the program.

Daylight Saving Time Leisure

We're still new at this daylight saving time, but so far we think we like it. We're not arising in the dark these days - or at least in the semi-darkness just after dawn. Not that that's so bad. It's daylight by the time we dress and shave and get down to the breakfast table.

Some adjustments will have to be made in neighborhood routines. The kids are going to be staying up later for one thing. In our neighborhood, which is typical, the other afternoon a bunch of them were just starting up a baseball game at 8 p.m. The younger ones ordinarily would be ready for bed by that time. One little fellow already had on his pajamas, but his mother just couldn't convince him it was bedtime while there still was so much light.

A couple of wives had their husbands out transplanting shrubbery or something. Another was washing his car and one was mowing his grass. This is leisure? Houston (Tex.) Chronicle

A Soviet Campaign Doomed At The Start

As should be obvious by now, the Russians borrow from capitalism when it suits their purpose. Their department stores have taken on a distinct (if dated) American flavor. Now they are even toying with the idea of copying U. S. advertising techniques, as will be seen from the guarded suggestion in the Soviet newspaper Literary Gazette: "It would be in the interests of our advertising business to study the American experience. We must remember that the great Lenin told us to learn from the capitalists and adopt what is clever or profitable to build communism. Of course, in America this (advertising) is not a sincere game, but one for the sake of profit. Nevertheless, one should not ignore the rich technical and organizational experience of the U. S. advertising business. And the best should be borrowed without hesitation. Without its effective advertising system after all, the United States would never be able to eat all that is consumed there now. This makes us think. There is no stimulus here to grow spinach or Brussels sprouts because there is no demand. Only ads can create a demand for spinach."

Therefore, the Gazette seems to argue, singing commercials, newspaper ads, billboards and such would create an entirely new industry in Russia - spinach production. While it's not our wish to save the Russians from another agricultural blunder, somebody should tell them that advertising is not responsible for the U. S. spinach industry. Spinach is eaten mostly by children, who are forced by parents who were themselves once compelled to eat it. No advertisement (not even old Popeye cartoons) induces children to like spinach, certainly not to ask for it. They eat it, if they eat it at all, because to refuse means no dessert or other punishment. It is a tradition which has been handed down from generation to generation, always with an element of malice and of revenge. - Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser

Shirley Temple for Congress?

WOODSIDE, Calif. (AP) - Shirley Temple for Congress? With Rep. J. Arthur Younger announcing he will not seek reelection next year, that became a possibility.

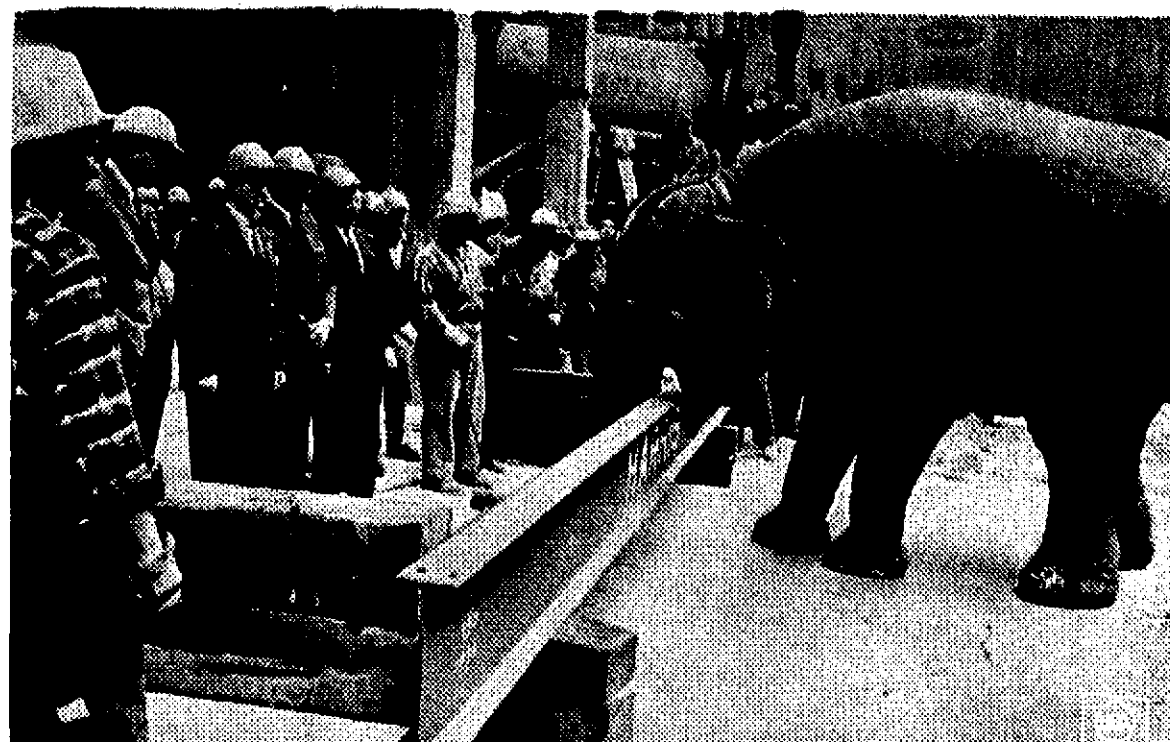

State Sen. Richard J. Dolwig of Atherton, like Younger a Republican, has been mentioned among possible candidates for the House seat.

The actress, Mrs. Shirley Temple Black, said Thursday she would back Dolwig if he ran.

"But if Sen. Dolwig doesn't run," she added, "I don't rule myself out as a possible candidate."

Greek Junta Out to Get Ex-American

ATHENS (AP) - Greece's military rulers want to give anti-communist leader Andreas Papandreu back to the United States if they can prove he is still an American citizen. The sharp-tongued, 47-year-old son of ex-Premier George Papandreu was one of the chief targets of the military junta which seized power on April 21. Both Papandreu were arrested, but the father was put under house arrest later.

The younger Papandreu is accused of leading a conspiracy of leftist army officers who plotted to overthrow King Constantine, withdraw Greece from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and set up a Socialist state. Interior Minister Stylianos Patacos said Andreas "will be tried and, whether found guilty or acquitted, he will be deported if he still has his U.S. citizenship."

Papandreu served in the U.S. Navy and became a U.S. citizen after World War II. A diplomatic source said he did not renounce his citizenship but that it was automatically removed when he was elected to the Greek Parliament in February 1964. His wife, the former Margaret Chant of Chicago, and their four children are all U.S. citizens.

Officer Is Convicted by Court Martial

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) - Army Capt. Howard B. Levy, convicted by a court-martial of disloyalty and disobedience charges, faces a possible prison sentence of 11 years. Levy, 30, Brooklyn-born dermatologist at Ft. Jackson Army Hospital, was convicted Friday of disobeying orders to train Green Beret medics and of promoting disloyalty among troops by making statements opposing U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The 10-member tribunal of career Army officers, four of them Vietnam veterans, reconvenes today to consider defense arguments for a lighter sentence.

Levy's attorney, who had warned that a conviction might create a martyr for the peace movement, failed in attempts to prove that the Army doctor's disobedience was justified on claims that Green Beret troops committed war crimes in Vietnam and that Levy's medical ethics took precedence over Army orders.

The dark-haired Levy, wearing black-rimmed glasses and a khaki uniform, stood with hands clasped behind his back as the verdict was read by Col. John S. Baskin, president of the court, after nearly six hours of deliberation by the tribunal.

Levy was flanked by two of his attorneys, Capt. Charles M. Sasser Jr. of Ft. Jackson and Charles Morgan Jr. of the American Civil Liberties Union.

After hearing "We find you guilty" five times, Levy turned and took his seat at a table. His face showed no emotion. On a front row were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Levy. "Please don't ask me anything," said Mrs. Levy.

Supreme Court Named in Suit

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) - Mrs. Mattie Lee Roberson of Camden has filed a $101,375 suit against the Arkansas Supreme Court contending that she was libeled in an opinion the court handed down in May 1966.

The opinion involved an appeal from a Ouachita Probate Court order in the administration of the estate of her father, Jesse B. Hamilton.

The opinion said Mrs. Roberson had herself appointed administratrix of the estate of her father but her appointment was set aside and Mrs. Georgia Hamilton, the widow was named.

Mrs. Roberson's complaint quoted this excerpt from the court's opinion:

"Ever since she was ousted as administratrix, the appellant, Mattie Lee Roberson, has been objecting to the various proceedings in the administration of the estate, and the present appeal is the culmination of her objections."

The complaint said Mrs. Roberson's reputation was questioned falsely.

The suit asks for $25,000 personal damages, $75,000 punitive damages and $1,375 reimbursement of her costs in courts.

Deadline Set in Little Rock Transit Strike

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - June 19 was set by union negotiators Thursday as the deadline for reaching agreement with the Twin City Transit Co. in Little Rock on a new contract for bus drivers and maintenance men.

The old contract expired at midnight Wednesday, shortly after Twin City Division 704 of the Amalgamated Transit Union voted 72-2 to reject the company's offer of a three-year contract that included raises of 5 cents an hour the first year, 4 cents the second and 3 cents the third for all employees.

The union leaders were authorized to call a strike "if and when deemed necessary. Representatives of both sides met with federal mediator George Arnold Thursday, but Arnold reported only slight progress after a five-hour meeting. Another bargaining session was scheduled today.

U.S. Talks With Nasser Have Failed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Private U.S. talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser to end the announced Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba have failed, the Washington Post reported early today.

The newspaper said Charles Yost, U.S. special envoy sent recently to Cairo, has been unable to bridge Nasser's stand on blockading the gulf.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson warned Friday that if Egypt carries out its threat to blockade the gulf, a conflict going beyond the Middle East "might be only a matter of hours."

Surveyor 3 Apparently Dead

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - As night fell on the moon, so did the hopes of scientists trying to awaken their ditch-digging Surveyor 3.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Thursday the 620-pound Surveyor, which landed in a crater on the moon April 19, refused to respond to commands from earth.

The spindly-legged photographic machine faces a two-week lunar night with temperatures dropping to 250 degrees below zero.

Marines Hit Routes of Infiltration

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) - About 1,200 U.S. Marines made an amphibious assault landing 21 miles northeast of Hue today in a move to cut one of the infiltration routes of North Vietnamese troops.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said no significant contact has yet been made with the enemy. A special landing force from the 3rd Marine Regiment went ashore by boats and helicopters in the operation.

It was the fourth amphibious assault in the last five weeks in the northernmost 1st Corps area. Marine intelligence sources report there are about 35,000 Communist troops in the demilitarized zone and in the two provinces just below it—Quang Tri and Thua Thien.

The assault was along the coast at the border of these two provinces. Communist forces in the immediate objective area were estimated at 800 troops.

The Song O Lau River, which runs through the middle of the area, has been pinpointed by intelligence sources as being an infiltration route for Communist troops.

In the last few months, both South Vietnamese troops and U.S. Marines have had several clashes with Communist troops in the area around Hue.

Thua Thien Province has been under sharp Communist pressure for several months and enemy forces have been hitting hard at government teams attempting to pacify the countryside.

Some Marines went ashore by boat in today's operation, code named "Bear Bite." Waves of helicopters from the carrier USS Okinawa dropped off Landing Force at two inland landing zones.

The destroyer Bigelow cruised off the coast with its big guns ready to provide support for the infantrymen.

The last amphibious assault in the northernmost areas was May 18 when Marines were landed for the first time inside the demilitarized zone.

In air action U.S. pilots reported several dogfights with Communist MIG interceptors Friday during raids on rail facilities northeast of Hanoi. No U.S. or enemy planes were immediately listed as downed.

The U.S. Command said several battalions of Marines were hitting Communist positions at Tam Ky under cover of air strikes and artillery. Early reports had 117 North Vietnamese killed, but there was no immediate word on Marine casualties.

June Is the Time for Brides, Wedding Ring Plays Important Role

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

June doesn't come in with a bang, but, rather, with a ring... a ring of bells and a band of gold.

The wedding ring is cherished as a symbol of union and has been so since the days of the ancient Egyptians. However, it wasn't until about the 9th century that it was symbolic of marriage; at first, it just denoted engagement. That is, we think that's the way it was. There is as much controversy over which ring came first as the old chicken-and-egg argument.

This much we are sure about. In many lands a single ring served a dual purpose. After it had denoted the betrothal of the loving couple, it was used at the wedding ceremony to actually seal the marriage pact.

Romans were one of the first people to use metal for rings. They had observed that in poorer cultures brides were given circlets of braided rush, leather and hemp to wear on their fingers. These didn't last very long and had to be replaced each year, so the Romans were determined to create something more durable. They did. They began using iron for wedding rings.

Later, they found out that gold rings were durable also and much prettier. The Romans were the

Denies Motion to Quash Jury

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - U.S. District Judge Oren Harris denied Thursday a motion to quash the names in the jury box for the Helena division of federal court.

Harris said the motion contending that the box did not contain enough names of Negroes was "without merit."

The motion was filed in May 1966 by attorneys for Charles Townsend, 33, of Lexa in Phillips County. Townsend has a $150,000 civil rights suit pending against members of the Helena police force. He contends his civil rights were violated in connection with a Dec. 24, 1965, arrest.

His attorneys wanted an 8 to 7 ratio of Negro and white names in the jury box. That is the same proportion of white and Negro adults of the six-county district.

Judge Orders Two Places Padlock

Judge Royce Weisenberger yesterday ordered two establishments on South Hazel Street operated by Joe (Cooter) Vaughn and Fred Scott, padlocked temporarily.

The judge ruled on petition filed by Norman Smith, deputy to Prosecuting Attorney Bill Denman and Hope City Attorney James H. Pilkinton.

The establishments are Snake's Shoe Shine Stand at 413 S. Hazel and a DX Service Station at 403 S. Hazel.

The petition listed Scott as paying fines on seven liquor violations and one is still pending. Vaughn paid fines for 10 liquor violations, appealed two and one charge is pending.

The temporary order restrains and enjoins Fred Scott and Joe Vaughn from any violation of the liquor law of Arkansas. Further hearing on the matter was set for 9 a.m. June 30.

Wife Takes to Trunk of Car

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - Policeman Carl Hoglen stopped Daniel Lunsford for a loud muffler.

The policeman then discovered Thursday that Lunsford also had no driver's license and no insurance. So Hoglen said he would impound the car.

"But my wife's in the trunk," Lunsford wailed.

It turned out that Mr. and Mrs. Lunsford had disagreed over something and she had vacated the front seat in favor of the trunk.

Hoglen released her. Lunsford was freed in $300 bond on the driving offenses.

ones who started wearing the ring on the third finger of the left hand, because they believed that a vein ran directly from the heart to this finger.

Over the years the wedding ring has had various kinds of adornment. The ancient Hebrews fashioned wedding rings of gold that were filled with and richly engraved. Perhaps the height of this ornamentation was reached with the ring Prince Albert gave to Queen Victoria. It was a golden ring fashioned as a snake of 14 linked joints, 12 of them set with diamonds. (Even with a dozen diamonds in it, a snake for a wedding ring wouldn't appeal to too many women, we wouldn't think!)

The most common type of wedding ring is the plain, circular band whose shape symbolizes unending love. Jeweled wedding bands have gone in and out of style, but not because of Prince Albert's taste. There was a superstition believed by many that the stones break the circle and are unlucky. But for those who aren't guided by superstition, there is a variety of jeweled bands available today, including lovely diamond-studded rings.

Regardless of the type or style chosen, the wedding ring remains the most cherished and most universal of all the symbols and traditions involved in marriage.

Russia Says Ship Bombed by U.S. Plane

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
MOSCOW (AP) - A Soviet charge that two U.S. jets bombed a Russian ship off North Vietnam killing one crewman and injuring six, heightened chances today of a showdown with Moscow over raids by American planes in areas of Soviet shipping.

Shortly after Moscow received a report Friday from the captain of the Soviet ship Turkestan, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko handed a sharp protest to the U.S. Embassy's minister-counselor, John C. Guthrie.

"In the event of a recurrence of such actions on the part of U.S. armed forces," Gromyko's note reportedly said, "the Soviet Union will be compelled to take appropriate measures to ensure the safety of its ships."

"The Soviet government insists, firstly, on the strict punishment of those responsible for the attack on the Soviet ship and, secondly, awaits assurances that there will be no recurrence of actions like this in respect of Soviet ships."

The U.S. Embassy had no immediate comment and forwarded the note to Washington.

The United States neither confirmed nor denied that U.S. planes bombed the ship, which the Soviets said was anchored in the harbor of Cam Pha, 60 miles north of Hanoi.

U.S. spokesmen have noted that American planes have tried to avoid hitting Soviet or other foreign vessels in raids along the North Vietnamese coast.

The United States has answered earlier Soviet charges of hitting ships by saying that falling North Vietnamese antiaircraft shells were to blame.

Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, printed the protest note on its front page today.

It commented: "It would be a mistake if the provocateurs did not fully consider the seriousness of the warning in the Soviet government's note. The sponsors of this kind of provocation evidently have a poor understanding of the situation and do not fully consider that they may be given a fitting rebuttal."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported from Vladivostok that an electro-mechanic named "Rybachuk" died three hours after the Friday raid. A motor mechanic named "Zemtzev" was reported in critical condition after a three-hour operation. Tass also said that "there were five lightly wounded" and that "there are bullet holes in the upper structure and the ship's boats."

Tass said the Turkestan, a diesel cargo ship, was carrying coal from Cam Pha to Japan. "Eyewitnesses," said Tass, "confirm that two American planes came in from two sides to bomb the Turkestan. The bombs fell 100 yards from the ship and afterwards both bombers fired explosive bullets at the ship from large caliber machine guns."

The Soviet note on the Turkestan incident was the strongest in a series of notes involving more and more serious charges of U.S. disturbances of Soviet ships in the Vietnam area.

Soviet ships, largely from Black Sea ports, often carry supplies to Communist North Vietnam.

The United States has rejected previous Soviet notes accusing U.S. warplanes of interfering with Soviet ships.

Family Going Away From It All

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Richard Aulls head today for some uninhabited island in the South Pacific to "get away from it all."

Ault, 29, a disc jockey from Wooster, Ohio, and his wife Lois have been planning their adventure for four years. Their daughter Tracy, 3, left on the plane with them Thursday.

"We're not fed up with life, or disgusted with it, or anything like that. On the contrary, we both love life and enjoy it to the full," he said.
